My Birthday

Waking up on a Sunday is not easy, I can tell you that. But waking up on a Sunday when it's your birthday, can give you literally a strength of an elephant. I experienced this yesterday.

In the morning, my family went to ABC Cinema. Since it was my birthday, my parents let me pick between the two most viewed movies that time; 'A Runner's Dream' or 'Robot Wars'. I picked 'The Robot War', since it sounded so exciting and was also a sequel to 'Rise, Danger', a movie that I watched ten years ago as a baby and often hoped to unleash a new sequel. I didn't regret watching it one bit. Spoiler alert; Robot Scar unfortunately lost the battle.

The afternoon birthday party held at home was a blast. Tim Fishermen, Katie Simons and Susan Halls all came to wish me a happy birthday. Presents big and small were lined up neatly, banners were decorated beautifully, everything was in place. Everyone sang me a song, and we all ate our food hungrily. After playing games, Tim and Katie both presented lovely gifts to me. When I opened up Susan's present cheerfully, I was shocked to find out thousands of drawings of me and Susan's memories, and all signed! I ran towards her and gave Susan a big hug. Mum took the picture just in time.

I still keep all the drawings. It is the memory – Memories of a lifetime.

My Birthday

Yesterday was my birthday. I won't forget that fantastic day.

Yesterday morning, my parents and I went to ABC Cinema and watched the new movie, The Robot War. I was delighted because I had wanted to watch that movie since I heard about it. It was great!

Then, Mum and Dad brought me to a restaurant. At first, I didn't want to go, but when I stepped into the restaurant, my friends and classmates all jumped out! I was shocked and excited. My friend Mary gave me a huge present. My other friends did, too. We chatted and had a delicious meal. Besides, we also played many funny and creative games. Everyone had a lot of fun enjoying my birthday party.

After the party ended, the first thing I did was to open the presents. The first birthday present I opened of course was Mary's. Her present was the largest one. I slowly opened the present box. Inside it was a big dictionary! Besides, the big dictionary, there was a birthday card. It said that I was not so good in English, so she gave me a dictionary to improve my vocabulary.

Yesterday was unforgettable. I will study hard with the dictionary that Mary gave me to improve my English!
